

Swinging through the trees at Camp Highland or relaxing in the pool at Big Canoe, Luke-Camp concluded nine-weeks of summer camp with powerful times of Bible study as we looked at the FREEDOM we have in Christ and the meaning of FAITH.

LukeCamp 2009

Dalvionna, pictured right, takes aim at God's Farm. This was her third year at LukeCamp and I was amazed by her zeal to lead. At eight she is ready to take over and run camp. Several times when things slowed down at camp she would come up and ask me what was going on and how could we get "things" moving. LukeCamp attracts leaders and Dalvionna is certainly a young leader in training. Pray for her as she lives in a very challenging home environment. She needs protection! I want to thank Camp Highland, Big Canoe

Chapel, all of our prayer partners - especially Troy, Tom and Matt for the awesome job of encouragement they provided. Special thanks to all of our volunteers, the Pavliks and the 40+ sponsors who supported a child at the $500.00 level sending one child to camp for nine-weeks.

Andy, pictured left, taught two basic life skill classes this summer focusing on the automotive industry. The lessons revolved around how to make a wise car purchase and how to change a tire. Good information, humor and a dash of God's perspective on wisdom and cars kept the campers entertained and well informed.

Trusting and Thanking God for Great Things,

Jessica, pictured left in blue, served as a volunteer this summer. She attended a four week scholarship course before joining camp as a full time volunteer. The campers pictured with Jessica enjoy a job exploration field trip to the headquarters of Chick-fil-A in early July. The staff at Chick-fil-A poured some incredible life lessons into the children and then the campers enjoyed lunch at the Greenbriar Mall Chick-fil-A.
